2009 Windemuth Family Reunion — Everyone is invited

July 8-10, 2009

Windemuth descendants meet every two years for a biennial reunion. The common thread we share is a DNA connection to Johann Christoph Windemuth, born 1676 in Allendorf Germany. More importantly, we reacquaint ourselves with cousins we haven't seen in a long time and build relationships with family members we never knew existed.

This will be the 15th reunion of North American Windemuth descendants. Since the first event in 1981 at Stillwater, NJ, the reunion has moved around North America and has been hosted in Cleveland, OH; Chicago, IL; Niagara Falls, Ontario; Branson, MO; Walnut Creek, CA; Frankenmuth, MI and Salt Lake City, UT.

Our 2009 hosts are Zetha and Bud Estes along with Herb and Sue Cook. Zetha and Herb are Windemuth descendants and have spent nearly 2 years planning this reunion and it promises to be one we will long remember. According to Sue Cook, "If you have never been to the Black Hills in Western South Dakota, we have a treat for you, and if you have, come along for a refresher!"

The Quality Inn in Rapid City is our headquarter hotel where guests enjoy a free hot breakfast buffet daily. The spacious indoor pool and a fun arcade for the kids make it a family favorite. We have reserved a block of rooms for family members, but it is important to get your

Life in Germany - The Lives of our Women Ancestors

By Mike Wintermute

Michael A. Wintermute's international travels over the past 35 years has afforded him the opportunity to visit and explore Pfungstadt and Allendorf, the German towns from which our ancestors emigrated. Mike can be reached at:

Second of a three part series; this article looks at our maternal ancestors and their lives in Germany and colonial America during the 17th and 18th century. Part 3 will be published in a future newsletter and examine the lives of our ancestral men.

Part 2

Though information is sketchy, we will explore the lives of our maternal ancestors. We know that they faced cold winters, disease and pestilence. Many of their offspring died at a young age.

Through it all, they nurtured their children and shaped their family's persona. We can never know how much of their influence was passed down through the generations, perhaps more than we suspect.

Beata Ludolsin: Johannes Windemuth's wife, Beata Ludolsin, was born in 1635 and died in 1693. Allendorf church records indicate she had three children: Anna Katherine, b. 1668, d. 1670; Susanna, b. 1673, d. 1674 and Johann Christoph, b. April 3, 1676.

Beata's surname Ludolsin is a bit of a mystery since it is not found anywhere else. The Allendorf church records were more than 200 years old when the translation was made and it is possible the old German script was misinterpreted. The construction of the name and the transcribed spelling may provide clues to help us with this puzzle.

Since the feminine suffix, "en", was commonly used with family names during that period, perhaps the "in" suffix should have been transcribed as an "en" making the name "Ludols".

The name Ludols is, once again, not associated with any other known German name.

The old German script "s", is similar to the character "f", except for a small diagonal tic. Perhaps the tic degraded with age and the transcription of "s", should have been "f" making the name Ludolf, a real name that dates back to 8th century German royalty.

The name Ludolf of royal origin was taken as a family name by many people during the medieval period. Based on what we know, we are much more likely to be descendants of a family that assumed the name Ludolf, than descendants from royalty.

It is reasonable to assume that Beata and Johannes lived near one another. During the 30 years war (1618 to 1648), there was a Pastor Lorenz Ludolf in the village of Reichenachsen. Pastor Ludolf is remembered for his writing about the severity of the atrocities being endured by the people of the Werra Valley. Reichensachsen is less than 4 miles from Weidenhausen, the home of Johannes.

Pastor Ludolf was of the right age to be Beata's father or uncle. This leads me to believe that Beata may have been part of the Ludolf family living in Reichenachsen.

We don't know when Beata and Johannes moved to Allendorf. The records of the Allendorf church first mention them in connection with the birth of Anne Katherine in 1668. It is possible that other children may have been born (and died) in a neighboring town before they arrived.

Beata was 33 when Anna Katherine was born. This seems old for the birth of a first child in the 17th century. We have found an Anna Maria Windemuth, b. 1662, d. 1727, in Wahlhausen, located 2 kilometers West of Allendorf. We can only speculate if this may be a daughter born earlier.

Maria Margarethe Kleppinger:

Johann Christoph, the son of Johannes and Beata relocated to Pfungstadt, Hesse-Darmstadt and married Maria Margarethe Kleppinger on January 4, 1702. The Kleppinger family had lived in Pfungstadt for many generations.

Maria, born about

1680, gave birth to five children; Anna Elizabeth b. 1703; Georg Philip b. 1705; Anna Maria b. 1708, d. 1711; Johann Heinrich b. 1709, d. 1710 and Johann Georg, b. May 11, 1711.

The eleven month period, from the middle of 1710 into 1711, was a tragic time for the family with the death of two of their children. Johann Georg was born just nine days before the death of his sister, Anna Maria.

The Windemuth DNA Project - Update

Susan Meier - serves as the Windemuth DNA Project Administrator. She is also Chairman of the Windemuth Family Genealogy Committee.

In the January 2009 Newsletter, we announced the establishment of the Windemuth DNA Project. Our first two participants were Neal D. Wintermute of Pennsylvania and Leonard N. Wintermute of Nebraska. Genetic DNA testing proved beyond a reasonable doubt that they had a common ancestor within the last 8 Generations. This supported our conventional genealogical research showing them to be 6th cousins, once removed, descending from US emigrator Johann Christoph Windemuth.

Since then, two more descendants have been tested and show the same strong DNA match confirming their relationship to Johann Christopher Wintermute.

Currently in testing is a male with a variation of the Windemuth surname. So far, our genealogical research has not been able to find a connection between him and Johann Christopher Windemuth. His DNA test may prove the connection or perhaps a link to Windemuth descendants in Europe or other parts of the world. Then again, there may be no connection as could happen if there had been an adoption or name change in his paternal line.

The Windemuth DNA project is open to all males with any variation of the Windemuth surname. It is limited to males because the Y-DNA is only passed virtually unchanged from father to son.

"We are particularly interested in Y-DNA testing of males living in European countries and those that have an uncertain genealogical connection to Johann Christoph Windemuth. This will allow us to widen the net and find new 'cousins'," according to Susan.

Females who would like to check their paternal line can ask a male relative with a variation of the Windemuth name to be tested.

Recently, a Deep Clade test was ordered for Neal Wintermute to determine from which Haplogroup the Windemuths descended. Think of a Haplogroup as a major branch on the family tree of Homo Sapiens.

Each Haplogroup defines the migration of ancient populations during the past 60,000 years. Neal was confirmed to be part of the I2b1a Haplogroup. (See the map on this page.)

I will be reporting more on the significance of this in the future.

Would you like to participate in this project?

Testing is simple and painless. First, obtain a test kit from Family Tree DNA.

Then self administer a cheek-swab, return it by mail and wait for the results! The price is $149 plus shipping and handling.

Contact Susan Meier for more information and to order your DNA test kit.

Fort Erie Museums

My name is Jude Scott and I am with the Fort Erie Historical Museum. George Sherck, a Wintemute descendant and one of our volunteers, brought in your current newsletter and The Windemuth Family Heritage 1996 book.

They are both excellent resources and you are all to be congratulated.

The Museum is wondering if we could be added to your newsletter mailing list. We would then make these newsletters available to researchers in our archives. I realize they can be downloaded, which we will do for the past issues, but a copy of each current newsletter would be appreciated.

We have been chosen as one of the two Canadian repositories for the Schurch Family Archives and similarly would like to offer your newsletter as a resource for genealogists and researchers.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Historic Wintemute Cabin

The Wyoming Valley Raid of July 1778 drove Mary Wintemute, her husband John and their 6 children out of Pennsylvania and away from the rebeling 13 colonies to Canadian territory and haven at Fort George.

John Wintemute and his sons served in the Butler's Rangers, the free-wheeling frontier force of Canadians that held the Niagara border in 1776. Two of them were killed in the war of 1812.

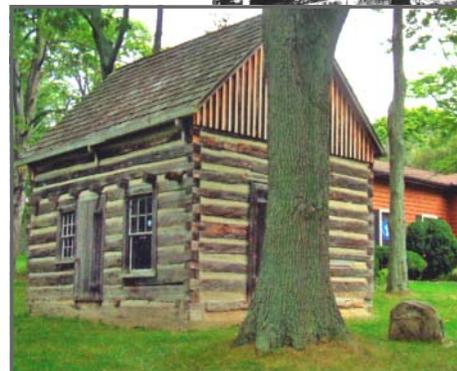

In 1818, the Wintemute family build this two room cabin in Haldimand County, Ontario, as required to secure a land patent from the government. The cabin was occupied and remained in the Wintemute family for 142 years until a new highway caused it to be relocated in 1960.

Today the cabin has been reconstructed at the Haldimand Museum and Archives at Cayuga, Ontario.

This information was provided by Windemuth descendant Shirley De Leeuw, Ancaster, Ontario.

Maria Margarethe died in January 1718, at the age of 38, leaving her children age 14, 12 and 6. Within the year, Johann Christoph married Anna Elizabeth Wambold, also a native of Pfungstadt. Anna Elizabeth was 24 and Johann 42 when they married.

Anna and Johann had no children of their own, but she raised and nurtured his three surviving children. Anna immigrated to America in 1736 with Johann Christoph and his son, Johann Georg. She died in Pennsylvania in 1746 at the age of 52.

The Windemuths were a close family and settled near each other. Anna and Johann lived in Pennsylvania near Johann's oldest son Georg Philip and within visiting distance of the other children. Anna Elizabeth, her husband Johannes Schnauber and Johann Georg, lived about 25 miles away, near Stillwater, New Jersey.

Margaret Elizabeth Bernhardt: Margaret Elizabeth was born in Kirzenheim, Germany, in 1721. The town is located at the base of the Donnersberg, about 15 miles west of Worms in the region known as The Lower Palantate, Rhenish Bavarian. Margaret Elizabeth was the oldest of three sisters. The middle sister was born in Kirzenheim and the youngest was born in England during their family's emigration to America.

Margaret Elizabeth's mother died soon after the family arrived in America. Her father, sister and her sister's husband Casper Scheaffer were among the first to settle in Stillwater. Several years later, she married Johann Georg Windemuth and they settled near the Bernhardts and Scheaffers in Stillwater. The Bernhardts, like the Windemuths, were a close family.

The German women of our past played an important role in developing the strength and character of their families. Perhaps the strongest testament to them comes from the lives of their children after emigration. Their children loved each other and wanted to live near by and share their lives. The Windemuth and Bernhardt children demonstrated great strength of character and rugged constitutions. They were, after all, tough enough to succeed in the wilderness of Eastern Pennsylvania and North Western New Jersey.

Historic Photos Wanted:

As Genealogy Chairman of the Windemuth Family Organization, I am asking for your help.

I am looking for historic photos of Windemuth descendants for our family archives. I intend on placing them on our web site for all family members to enjoy.

Photos can be in the form of photographic reprints, high quality laser color copies, or scanned photos in electronic format. The important thing is that they be of good quality.

Be sure to include names, places, dates and any story that goes along with the picture. Please send them to me by mail or e-mail:

There is plenty of free time to do sight seeing on your own. Visit the Mammoth Site, an active archeological dig, in Hot Springs or the historical town of Deadwood where you find the final resting spot of some of the most colorful characters of the old west; among them Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane and Potato Creek Johnny.

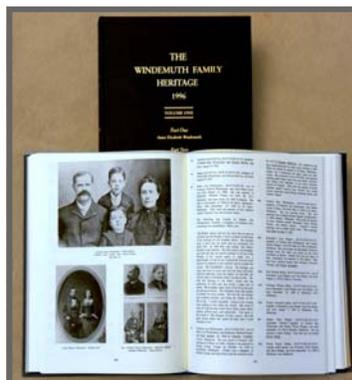

East of Rapid City is the Badlands National Park, a scenic, yet seemingly hostile landscape. As you leave the park, you might be a bit parched from the summer heat. Respite is close by at Wall Drug Store where the Husted family still promises free ice water, as they did during the Great Depression.

Located on street corners throughout downtown Rapid City are 31 life sized bronze statues of U.S. presidents. While downtown, plan on visiting Landstrom's Jewelry to view their "Original Black Hills Gold Creations". Landstrom's is offering all reunion participants a significant discount by showing your reunion badge.

Come and enjoy family, friends and Western hospitality at its best. See you in the Black Hills!
